

KLAUS KNEIST

Director/DP Klaus Kneist, born 1994, currently lives in Berlin, Germany.

In the middle of his teenage years, the first camcorder fell in his hands. A short time later the first GoPro and so everything took its course. Fascinated by filming his best friends doing sports in the mountains, he knew that he had found his passion. He realized that his heart belongs to the composition of pictures. But above all, he was inspired by the sheer endless possibilities and dimensions of the medium of film. Not least because of his great enthusiasm for motor sports, he has become a great fan of the moving camera in all its dimensions - whether gentle and calm or fast and adrenaline-charged - always used carefully and consciously as a stylistic device. Several changes of residence later and a degree in audiovisual media (B.Eng.) in his pocket, he now lives in Berlin and enjoys working on various projects as a director and/or DoP.

Creating stories with a strong visual aesthetic in which the viewer can get lost, always makes his heart skip a beat.
